I Look After....

Length: 10-15 min.

Language area: phrasal verbs

Social/personal skills: analyzing relationships, identifying the closest people

B1

Worksheets needed

Attach the worksheet to the blackboard/wall/etc. or copy the sentences onto a large sheet of paper (a better option). Ask the students to think about the people they care about and fill in any three sentences with one person/name of their choice. When the task is done, comment on which questions were chosen by the students and give several examples from the answers.

1. Could you write more than one person in each sentence?
2. Who could fill in the sentences with your name?
3. How does it feel to have people you care about?

Where Do I Stand?

Length: 10 min.

Language area: connectives of time

Social/personal skills: participating in teamwork

B1, B2

This exercise is suitable for the revision of connectives of time or for learning new connectives (in that case, additional materials, e.g. dictionaries are required). The exercise begins with everyone sitting in their seats. Ask the students to remember/find connectives of time. If a student tells a connective, he stands in front of the class. The students have to form "a continuum of time" in front of the class: the students who think of a connective about the past (prior; at the beginning), stand on the left; the students whose connectives are about the present, stand in the middle; the students who think of connectives about the future (following; afterwards), stand on the right. If several students fail to think of any connectives, let their classmates help them. Then they stand according to what their classmates suggested.

at first, before, in the beginning, firstly, up to that time in the meanwhile, at present, simultaneously, now after a while, next, in the end, after that, later, finally, eventually

My Store

Length: 25-35 min.

Language area: countable/uncountable nouns

Social/personal skills: selling, advertising, decision making

B1

Worksheets needed

Additional materials needed

Cut out the cards from the worksheet. You can add words of your choice. Ask the students to draw 2-3 items from the card pile (there are 60 cards; each student should get the same number of cards). Instruct them: You are salesmen who will have limited time to sell your items for as much as you possibly can (give them 7-15 minutes for the task). Each of you is also a buyer with limited currency. You can sell the items that you've bought from the other salesmen. Distribute some “currency”: tokens, board game money, candy, peanuts, etc.

The salesmen and the buyers construct the dialogues in the following manner:

“Would you like some happiness?” OR “Would you like to buy a cat?”

“How much happiness have you got?” OR “How many cats have you got?”

“10 percent” OR “2 cats”

“No, I would like more/less happiness” OR “No, I would like more/fewer cats. (“Yes, I will take it” OR “Yes, I will take them”).

Explain to the students that it is important to use the correct forms of questions and answers – one type for the uncountables, and the other type for the countables.

discuss

1. What does it take to sell an item?
2. What strategies did you use?
3. Were there any items that were impossible to sell? Why?
4. What items were the most easy to sell? Why?
5. What qualities does it take to be a good salesman?
6. Does everyone have qualities, required to sell? Is it necessary to have them? Why?

I look after..

2. I watch over..

3. I cheer..

..up when he/she is down

4. I get along with..

..really well

5. I look up to..
